SAVE THE BELUGA WHALES!

My Connection with the Magical Beluga Whales:

When I was in my early 20's I went to the Sacramento Zoo and was led to the whale exhibit. In part of the exhibit, you can view them underwater, which is where I had an amazing experience.

There was a beautiful white Beluga whale who looked like she could use some healing energy. I do energy healing, so I put my hands on the glass and starting sending energy to her. The beluga looked at me, swam over and immediately began to come rub her head on the glass right where my hands were. She swan in a circle, each time passing by and rubbing on the glass where my hands were sending energy.

After at least a dozen times, she motioned me to go up to the surface. I came and sat next to the water where she was waiting for me. I said, "Hello" and to my shock and delight she mimicked, "Hello" through her blow hole! Next, I said, "How are you?". Again, she mimicked through her bow hole, "How are you?" Every word, phrase, or sentence I said, she responded in kind.

Pretty soon we started to draw a crowd, many of whom tried to get her attention and talk to her, but she would only respond to me. I didn't find out until much later that Belugas are known for being able to mimic human voices. After about 30 minutes we had around 100 people watching in awe at our conversation. For me, I literally felt my soul connecting with her!

The zoo keepers came along and closed the exhibit and kicked us all out. I cried for the joy and privilege of my magical interaction with this Divine Being and the sadness of having to leave her. My life was forever changed having had a heart to heart awakening with this Beluga Being of Light

And so began my conscious soul connection with and compassion for these sacred Beluga Beings, often called the Canaries of the Sea. I continued to go to places that had Belugas, zoos and Sea World. Each time I would send the Belugas love and healing energy through the aquarium glass and some of them would rub their heads against where my hands were, there was never another chance to sit close to them, but my soul always felt the connection none-the-less. As a Spiritual Teacher for almost 50 years I send love, healing, awakening, Divine Light, and compassion every night to all the life forms in the universe and of course to all of the Belugas! In my opinion they are an intagul part of the conscious awakening of this plant need to be saved from extinction.

> “Today, certain populations of belugas like those in Alaska's Cook Inlet are in grave danger, are on the severely endangered list and are threatened by noise pollution as well as environmental pollution, and need our help.”

I have decided to start a Save the Animals Fundraiser campaign with the donations going to the Beluga Whale Alliance because they seem to be the most like minded and alined organization with my vision of protecting the Beluga Whales.

Suzanne Steinert, Founder and President of the Beluga Whale Alliance says Belugies, as she calls them, are "Beings of Light" that bring everyone together with their Beluga Magic and Beluga Medicine! She sends healing energy out to them every time she excitedly spots them. Their organization is based in Girdwood, Alaska, along a 40-mile stretch of shoreline that parallels critical habitat for Alaska’s endangered Cook Inlet beluga whales.

I hope you will help me and donate to this campaign. All donations will go directly to BelugaWhaleAlliance.org.

> “BWA's approach blends personal connection with science… the donated funds will be used to help save Alaska's Cook Inlet belugas… and the more people donate, the better we can help this population of critically endangered belugas survive!”

Accessible via and paralleling the Seward Highway, one of the United States’ most scenic drives, this area serves as the primary location of our immediate ‘boots on the ground’ efforts supporting the recovery of our critically endangered Cook Inlet belugas.

Charitable donations made today will help us to expand our ongoing efforts to support the recovery of our critically endangered Cook Inlet belugas, which include: seasonal shore-based monitoring of their movements & distribution; collaborating with new allies to build strategic partnerships to enhance their protection; educating the public; and most importantly, enabling locals and visitors to participate in specific recovery actions.

In addition to helping us implement our programs and projects aimed at supporting Cook Inlet beluga recovery, funds received during our current start-up phase will help us build a sustainable operating base — a vital next step to enabling us to carry out our mission of supporting the worldwide conservation of belugas by expanding our efforts beyond our current region of focus, going forward!
